Patricia Harding will be speaking on the Oncidiinae of Brazil. She will show us their habitats and examples of the plants as they are found in nature. Even though the species can seem very similar, Patricia will show us the patterns that can be used to identify them. The last half of the program she will talk about the recent re-classification of the species. She tries to keep this humorous and not overwhelm with the science of taxonomy.

Patricia is retired from the workforce and now does orchids, as a writer, traveler, photographer and observer, with a little orchid growing on the side. When she’s not traveling, she lives in Oregon.

She will have copies of her book for sale --Orchids of Brazil, Vol.I Oncidiinae for sale for $45, on a preorder basis. She would like to point out that if you order them online they will cost $43.25, though this is going up soon to $53.25. http://www.orchidstudium.com/orchidsofbrazil.html.

Speaker’s Dinner with Patricia Harding is on Thursday, May 10th at 5:30 p.m. at the Sichuan Fortune House, 41 Woodsworth Lane, Pleasant Hill.

Everyone is welcome to attend and meet our speaker before the meeting. If you can join us, please call George McRae at (510) 233-7374 to be included in the reservation.

At Our April Meeting we had a hands-on potting Event

The DVOS spring lecture series was altered in April to accommodate the newer members of our club. Liz Charlton and Eileen Jackson led the group in an Orchids 101 class of “How To Re-Pot An Orchid.” This was a tell, show, do, hands-on type of presentation with plenty of participants learning the basics of orchid re-potting.

The supplies needed were: Styrofoam pellets or peanuts, the kind you use to send a package; disposable single edge razors blades; a propane torch; nippers; bark; perlite; and clean plastic or clay pots. The Styrofoam peanuts provide an air space in the bottom of your pot. This allows for good water drainage and air circulation in an area that otherwise can become stagnant and rot.

The razor blades are for making cuts. They are used to cut of dying roots or back bulbs from your existing plant to be transplanted. These are to be used on one plant only then disposed. The purpose of this is that some of your orchids maybe virused or diseased and if you reuse any cutting tool on more than one plant you can contaminate your entire collection.

The alternative to razor blades are nippers and a propane torch. The cutting surface on your nippers can be sterilized in between plants by running the flame of a propane torch over the blades of the nippers several times. This will effectively sterilize the nippers so that no pathogens will be transmitted from plant to plant.

The medium that you plant your orchid in is up to you. For the purpose of this demonstration Rexius Fir Bark was used in either small or medium size. This size is determined by the size of your orchid roots.
Orchids with very fine small roots should be potted in small bark. Orchids with larger roots such as cymbidiums and Cattleyas require medium size bark. These bark mediums were mixed with #3 perlite. Perlite is an expanded pumice like stone that provides air space in between the bark to allow for drainage and air circulation. This was mixed in at a ratio of 3 parts bark to one part perlite.

All of these supplies can be found at some hardware stores, Navlets nursery’s, or Secret Gardens on 921 University Avenue, Berkeley, (510 486-0117).

Now the ABC’s of re-potting your orchid. First, the night before you plan to tackle the re-potting of your orchids, you should soak it overnight in water to get rid of the dust. The bark that sinks in the water is not used to re-pot your orchids.
Now to the actual process of re-potting. Remove and save your tag from the orchid you are re-potting. Next, remove your orchid and clean off the old sheaths from the back bulbs. This is that brownish-white papery material that surrounds the bulbs of the plant. Now remove any dead or rotten roots.

Try to leave the dead string in the center of the dead roots this can provide some anchorage to your plant if it is low on roots when you are re-potting. Next, pour hydrogen peroxide over your cut roots to disinfect them. Place your orchid into a new pot that has 1-2 inches of Styrofoam peanuts in the bottom of the pot. The placement of your orchid should be such that the old growth is next to the edge of the pot and the new growth has 1-2 inches of space to grow in the future.

This recommendation will also make sure that you don’t choose a pot too big for your plant. Next, fill the pot with your new plant in it with your bark and perlite mixture. Tamp this medium around the edges of the pot with a blunt stick or object to compress the medium and hold the root base tight. At this point the plant should be able to be lifted by the leaves and the plant, pot and media should all be as one and be lifted without falling apart. Orchids do not like to be wobbly or be loose in their pots. Then put your tag back into your plant. Do not water your plant for one week.

An Update from Headquarters – AOS on the move

The sale of the property to the Slomin Foundation, a foundation supporting those with Autism Spectrum Disorder, was completed on November 20, 2011. The AOS orchid collection was moved to temporary growing space in mid-December managed by a major donor to the Fairchild Tropical Gardens. Fairchild is now in the process of cataloging these plants and will in the next month or so begin their move and permanent installation within the Gardens. On Monday March 26, the furniture was moved from the old location to our new offices at the Fairchild and we will then begin the process of settling in. Due to the commuting distance, a number of AOS employees will not be going with us which will require us to manage the day-to-day business to the best of our abilities. During this interim transition, members may experience a delay with regard to requests of the staff and it is recommended that contact be through the general email address TheAOS@aos.org or through the appropriate committee email addresses. We will do our best to keep these to a minimum. More information about the move and transition will be forthcoming in future issues of Orchids or from time to time on the AOS website. The new AOS mailing address is: The American Orchid Society at Fairchild Tropical Gardens, 10901 Old Cutler Road, Coral Gables, FL 33156.

Announcing the 2012 Magazine Supplement

AOS has an excellent thesis on the genus Cycnoches, written by George Carr which will be published as the third AOS magazine supplement. It is a thorough and well-researched paper written by an expert on this genus of orchids that are becoming increasingly popular. We know it will be a valued addition to this volume of Orchids. It will mail with the August issue of Orchids and once again we appeal to the membership to make a small donation to help underwrite the cost of production.

If each member of the AOS donates merely $2.00, we will have enough to publish this special 32-page supplement and cover the increased cost of mailing with the regularly scheduled magazine. Please go to the AOS website and click the 2012 Magazine Supplement link for a painless payment of $2.00 through PayPal.© Of course you may also donate more than $2.00.
